

The book was found

Land!: The Case For An Agrarian Economy

Synopsis

The accomplished poet and scholar John Crowe Ransom made profound contributions to twentieth-century American literature. As a teacher at Vanderbilt University he was also a leading member of the Southern Agrarian movement and a contributor to the movement's manifesto "I'll Take My Stand." Ransom's Land! is a previously unpublished work that unites Ransom's poetic sensibilities with an examination of economics at the height of the Great Depression. Politically charged with Ransom's aesthetic beliefs about literature and his agrarian interpretation of economics, Land! was long thought to have been burned by its author after he failed to find a publisher. Thankfully, the manuscript was discovered, and we are now able to read this unique and interesting contribution to the Southern Agrarian revival. After the publication of "I'll Take My Stand" in 1930, Ransom, who provided the book's Statement of Principles in addition to its lead essay, became convinced that the book had not adequately proposed an economic alternative to Northern industrialism, which had fairly obliterated the Southern way of life. Land! was Ransom's attempt to fill this gap. In it he presents the weaknesses inherent in capitalism and argues convincingly that socialism is not only an inadequate alternative but inimical to American sensibilities. He proposes instead that agrarianism, which could flourish alongside capitalism, would relieve the problems of unemployment and the "permanently unemployed." In particular, he argues that what he calls the "amphibian farmer"—who can survive in both a monetary and a non-monetary economy—would never, so long as he relied on himself for necessities, have to fear unemployment. America, Ransom claims, is unique in offering this opportunity because, unlike in European countries, land is plentiful. ^

Book Information

Hardcover: 160 pages

Publisher: University of Notre Dame Press; 1 edition (March 30, 2017)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0268101930

ISBN-13: 978-0268101930

Product Dimensions: 6 x 0.8 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 12 ounces (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: Be the first to review this item

Best Sellers Rank: #627,865 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #53 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Politics & Government > Public Affairs & Policy > Agriculture & Food Policy #1096

inÃ ˆ Books > Business & Money > Economics > Theory #1560 inÃ ˆ Books > Business & Money > Economics > Environmental Economics

Customer Reviews

"For students of American literature, for contemporary Agrarians, for historians of American ideas, and for all those who believe that a 'third way economics' deserves new attention in our raucous social-economic times, this is the equivalent to a musicologist's discovery of a long-lost symphony by Mozart or Brahms. John Crowe Ransom's 1932 essay Land! is insightful American history, at once splendidly old and remarkably fresh." —•Allan C. Carlson, editor, The Family in America"We owe Jay Collier and Jason Peters a debt of gratitude for a splendid edition of Land!, John Crowe Ransom's Depression-era treatise on political economy. A wide range of Americans who find modernity at cross-purposes with traditional values hear the reverberations still. I'll Take My Stand retains the power to 'wake us up,' and the audacity of the Southern Agrarians' project is evident in Ransom's economic sequel with its call to withdraw from the capitalist economy, to go forward by moving backward." —•Paul V. Murphy, Grand Valley State University"The question Ransom poses in Land! is as fundamental as it is perennial: how should people find their place in an economic order productive of the health and flourishing of the land and all its inhabitants? In proposing an agrarian solution, Ransom invites a rethinking of the bases of a sound and resilient culture. Far from being solely of historical interest, this text from the margins of mainstream economic thinking offers a fresh opportunity to reimagine the forms of our life together." —•Norman Wirzba, Duke University Divinity School"John Crowe Ransom's Land!, an idiosyncratic view of American economics in the early twentieth century, which has been intelligently edited by Jason Peters, adds a rich and considerable dimension to Agrarianism. Mr. Ransom's highly original argument unfolds in beautifully written prose as he presents the various forms of modern economic practices ranging from capitalism in Britain and the United States to socialism in Europe. Serious students of Ransom's work will want to read this engaging and thought-provoking book." —•George Core, retired editor of The Sewanee Review

John Crowe Ransom (1888–1974) was an American poet and critic whose book The New Criticism (1941) provided the name of the influential mid-twentieth-century school of criticism. He taught English at Vanderbilt University and Kenyon College where he founded and edited the literary magazine The Kenyon Review. He published numerous volumes of poetry, including Selected Poems (1945, 1969), which won a National Book Award. Jason Peters is professor of English and the Dorothy J. Parkander Chair in Literature at Augustana College.

Download to continue reading...

Land!: The Case for an Agrarian Economy Scooby-Doo Set of 8 Mystery Chapter Books (Haunted Castle ~ Snow Monster ~ Fairground Phantom ~ Spooky Strikeout ~ Case of the Haunted Hound ~ Case of the Living Doll ~ Case of the Spinning Spider ~ The Creepy Camp) The Case Interview: 20 Days to Ace the Case: Your Day-by-Day Prep Course to Land a Job in Management Consulting Sailor's Hope: The Life and Times of William Cooper, Agrarian Radical in an Age of Revolutions Imperial Nature: The World Bank and Struggles for Social Justice in the Age of Globalization (Yale Agrarian Studies Series) The Political Ecology of Bananas: Contract Farming, Peasants, and Agrarian Change in the Eastern Caribbean Peasants of Costa Rica and the Development of Agrarian Capitalism Strangers on Familiar Soil: Rediscovering the Chile-California Connection (Yale Agrarian Studies Series) The Art of Not Being Governed: An Anarchist History of Upland Southeast Asia (Yale Agrarian Studies Series) The Night Battles: Witchcraft and Agrarian Cults in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries The Night Battles: Witchcraft & Agrarian Cults in the Sixteenth & Seventeenth Centuries Food Systems in an Unequal World: Pesticides, Vegetables, and Agrarian Capitalism in Costa Rica (Society, Environment, and Place) Every Twelve Seconds: Industrialized Slaughter and the Politics of Sight (Yale Agrarian Studies Series) I'll Take My Stand: The South and the Agrarian Tradition (Library of Southern Civilization) The Art of the Commonplace: The Agrarian Essays of Wendell Berry The Natural Family Where it Belongs: New Agrarian Essays Agrarian Dreams: The Paradox of Organic Farming in California (California Studies in Critical Human Geography) Collecting Food, Cultivating People: Subsistence and Society in Central Africa (Yale Agrarian Studies Series) From Precaution to Profit: Contemporary Challenges to Environmental Protection in the Montreal Protocol (Yale Agrarian Studies Series) The Art of Loading Brush: New Agrarian Writings

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help