After receiving his Ph.D. at the University of Iowa, Ted Baumgartner taught measurement and statistics classes in the School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance at Indiana University for ten years. Since 1977 he has taught research, measurement, and statistics classes in the Department of Exercise Science at The University of Georgia. Ted started the Measurement in Physical Education and Exercise Science journal and was the first editor. He is a fellow in the American Academy of Kinesiology and Physical Education. Many of the measurement specialists in physical education and exercise science received their doctoral training with Ted.

Textbook for a graduate research course. What else is there to say?

hard to understand.

In great condition and included personal notes din class.

required textbook

Timely and accurate to description.

this book is good condition, and very useful for my class.it is really a nice book for me .ha ha

Speedy shipping and quality product!

Lazily written, unclear, and poorly formatted. This is one of the most drab textbooks I have ever read.
